

The top quality, reliability, precision, and customization of our dental tools make for optimal white-label solutions to be successfully marketed under your brand. SUN wants to be your trusted partner. Since our founding in 2002, we have followed one philosophy: to think in terms of our market and our users and to create innovative high-quality products that inspire. Thanks to our own product and process development, we are able to economically produce custom rotary grinding and polishing instruments for you — even in smaller quantities — in addition to our high-quality standard portfolio. Take advantage of our expertise for joint development. Benefit from our seamless quality management with batch traceability back to the original raw material. Our products and your brand are the best combination for a successful future.

ISO 13485 quality management, flexibility, high delivery service levels, and strong post-marketing support depend on qualified employees, agile teams, and flat hierarchies. This is why we consistently focus on Germany as a production location and on our own production with the greatest possible vertical range of manufacture. We have all the critical factors in our own hands and can respond quickly and efficiently to your needs as market requirements change. The same applies to our joint development processes. SUN has developed a process that significantly shortens the time from idea to market-ready instrument. We do this by leveraging our knowledge of more than 2,500 variants. Whatever your strategy for the future: We listen, we design, we deliver.
