LIVESTOCK LANDSCAPE IN INDIA

Livestock holds a crucial socio-economic role in India, benefiting from the nation's favorable terrain and environment. Approximately 20.5 million individuals rely on livestock for their livelihoods, with the sector contributing 16% to the income of small farm households, surpassing the average of 14% for all rural households.

Notably, livestock sustains the livelihoods of two-thirds of the rural community. India boasts a substantial supply of livestock, encompassing Dairy, Poultry, Meat, Honey, and more, all contributing significantly to enhancing the socio-economic conditions of the rural population.
